1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the method of despreading a GPS signal comprising providing Doppler information, correlating a target signal and modifying the correlation as a function of Doppler must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s).

No new matter should be entered.

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 7 is indefinite since it is not further limiting since claim 1 already defines "received by a GPS receiver". Additionally, claim 7 is an apparatus claim whereas the claim from which it depends is a method claim. Likewise, claim 8 is indefinite since it is an apparatus dependent upon a method; it is not clear how a mobile telephone provides the method of claim 1.

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Art Unit: 3662

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-2 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Gronemeyer.

Gronemeyer discloses a method and apparatus for modifying the matched filter processing with Doppler information, see Figure 3 for example.

6. Claims 1, 2, 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Krasner. Krasner discloses an integrated GPS/communication receiver wherein the correlation involved in a GPS acquisition circuit is compensated for Doppler, see Figure 3A for example, prior to correlation with the reference signal from a PN generator.

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 3-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Krasner.

Krasner teaches the subject matter substantially as claimed but fails to show estimating the Doppler shift on the basis of last known position or a position fix computed by a base station of the communication network. Krasner does suggest the base station computing the mobile station position, thus the base station is aware of the mobile station position. Additionally, it is well-known in cellular communications that the base stations respectively communicate cell ID/location information in the transmission sequence. Thus, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Krasner by utilizing information from the base station with regard to position to identify Doppler shift information since an estimate of position is well-known to provide rapid acquisition of satellite signals by reducing the search ranges of each of frequency and code phases, as shown by Ando.
